INTRODUCTION

Educational Institutions are the reflection of any society, catering to the needs of its young citizens by imparting knowledge, information dissemination, cognitive and intellectual growth, and individual development. However, the role of educational institutions is far more significant than merely imparting education through classroom teaching. Educational Institutions also contribute to social well-being by engaging in outreach activities and extension work beyond the traditional pedagogical process. Swami Vivekananda envisioned education as a vehicle for transformative change and community development. He emphasized on spiritual aspect of education i.e. "Service to man is service to god". National Education Policy 2020 identifies schools and educational institutions as Samajik Chetna Kendra and delineates its role in restructuring larger societies through social consciousness and community participation.

The National Education Policy 2020 emphasized on equity, inclusiveness, transformational change, and inculcating the scientific temperament. The NEP 2020 aligns with SDG 4, which seeks to "ensure inclusive and equitable quality education and promote lifelong learning opportunities for all" by 2030. All the aforementioned expectations of the policy require serious engagements in the form of discourses/ workshops/seminars, where experts, academics, practitioners, students, and other stakeholders can construct an integrated and strategic plan. The Centre for Extension and Field Outreach, Delhi Technological University, hereby is committed to such academic initiatives and designed a one-day National Conference on Social Responsibilities of Educational Institutions in the context of NEP 2020 in collaboration with academic institutions.

The broad objectives of the one-day national conference are to explore and discuss the roles and obligations of educational institutions within the framework of the National Education Policy 2020, highlighting best practices, challenges, and strategies for fostering societal development and contributing to the quality teaching-learning process. The conference will provide a platform for academicians, practitioners, students, and other stakeholders in education to share their knowledge, expertise, and experiential learning to achieve a long-term goal of National Education Policy 2020, i.e., education to make an equitable, inclusive, and plural society.
